FINANCIAL CENTRE

WELCOME

DEAR COLLEAGUE

On behalf of the Qatar Financial Centre Authority, may I extend to you a warm welcome. We are very pleased that you are joining us for the 4th MultaQa Qatar conference.

MultaQa Qatar is now firmly established as a 'rendezvous' for some of the most senior executives in today's regional and international insurance and reinsurance community. It is now recognised both internationally and locally as 'The place to do Business' and 2010 will offer even more opportunities to our esteemed delegation than ever before.

We are pleased to build on the success of the past three conferences. Year after year we feel that the event keeps on improving, largely through the active participation of our delegates and building off the strong potential for the insurance and reinsurance industry within the GCC and specifically here in Qatar.

Last year's MultaQa Qatar came at a very challenging period where the credit and financial crisis had made a significant impact on global markets. It was at a time where the global economy was still mired in recession and fears of a prolonged slump or even a severe depression weighed on the minds of most business people. While there is still a great deal of uncertainty surrounding the viability of the global economic recovery, there is certainly a lot of optimism related to financial services in Qatar.

The Qatar Financial Centre Authority (QFCA) recently announced a realignment of our strategy, deciding to build off the foundations of a successful first 5 years and to focus on a few areas where we feel we can develop a very strong foothold. Along with Asset Management, the decision to focus our resources in developing the Reinsurance and Captive Insurance industries in Qatar is both a testament to the exceptional market opportunity and our confidence that Qatar can become a pre-eminent hub for reinsurance and Captives in the Middle East.

I believe that this year's conference programme is both robust and engaging, especially considering the background of the speakers and panelists. Similar to last year, the content balances a look back, trying to identify lessons learnt through the experience of the last couple years, with looking forward to the future opportunity in Qatar and the region.

We hope the conference will provide you with authoritative and relevant information and that you will benefit from expert commentary on subjects ranging from the strategic and operational implications of the financial crisis for regional insurers, the prospects for electronic risk trading and placement in the region and the increasing boardroom relevance of risk management.

In addition to our full programme of presentations and panel debates on the main stage, we are pleased to invite you to our Business Bazaar, Receptions and Dinners and our social programmes where hopefully you'll be able to mix learning from the session with some networking and fun.

I very much hope your stay in Doha is a valuable one and that you are able to take full advantage of our Qatari hospitality.

WELCOME

DEAR COLLEAGUE

Global Reinsurance is delighted to be working with the Qatar Financial Centre Authority to deliver this, the fourth annual MultaQa Qatar conference.

Since its launch in 2007, MultaQa Qatar has grown in size and stature. The event now commands an international reputation, attracting the highest calibre speakers and global delegation with attendees from across the GCC, Europe, the US and Asia.

As the new Editor-in-Chief for Global Reinsurance I'm very pleased to have the opportunity to join MultaQa Qatar 2010 and to chair the 'future gazing' panel session on day two.

I'm sure our line up of expert panelists will share some interesting predictions for the GCC insurance markets as we look forward to 2020.

This is also an exciting time for Global Reinsurance. In February we launched the new look GR, complete with a whole host of new sections including interviews, analysis, columns from leading market personalities and importantly dedicated coverage of the people at the centre of the transaction – the cedants.

We are building upon two decades of heritage to bring you a digest of the latest news in the market but to also set into context the wider economic considerations of companies operating across the dynamic international insurance community. Look out for the new edition of Global Reinsurance which is being handed out at the event.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all our speakers for taking time out of their busy schedules to share their views and experiences. I would also like to thank our event partners Q-Re, Gulf Re, Kane and Reed Personnel Services Qatar LLC for their support in 2010.

I look forward to meeting you personally over the next two days.

The background of the page is a dark gradient, transitioning from a deep purple at the top to black at the bottom. Overlaid on this gradient are numerous thin, glowing lines in shades of light purple and pink. These lines are mostly curved and flow from the upper right towards the lower left, creating a sense of movement and depth. Some lines are straight and cross the curved ones, adding to the complexity of the design.
